

Name _____

(please print)

Email Address _____

LAB SAFETY AND EMERGENCY RESPONSE QUIZ

Decide whether the following statements are true or false and circle your answer.

- True or False      The most common types laboratory accidents here in the Chemistry Department are burns and cuts.
- T or F                The number to call for medical, fire, and chemical emergencies is 911.
- T or F                The hands are the most sensitive part of the body in terms of chemical exposure.
- T or F                When a chemical is splashed into the eyes, the eyes should be washed for a minute or so.
- T or F                Every chemical spill no matter how small, constitutes an emergency.
- T or F                For a fire emergency, you should pull the fire alarm to evacuate the building AND call 911.
- T or F                The CO<sub>2</sub> fire extinguisher can be used for all fires.
- T or F                The Incident Report form should only be filled out for emergencies that require medical transport.
- T or F                It is the Safety Coordinator's responsibility to see that an Incident Report form is filled out after an incident.
- T or F                An injured student should be sent to the Student Health Center whenever it is convenient.